

M. 393,718

S. 446,764

Front
PageEdit
PageOther
Page

Date:

JUL 20 1961

By Douglas Chevallier, Staff Photographer

IT'S A BIRD! The little girls are bird-watchers—in an abstract way. They are gazing up at an 11-foot limestone abstract statue of a crow which was unveiled last weekend at a dinner garden party at the McLean, Va., estate of Richard H. Crowe on the Potomac River. The four-dimensional bird is the work of Georgetown artist Andre Gaunoux. The children are (left) Paula Skallerup, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Skallerup, and Deborah Tucker, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Tucker. The girls are Potomac School students and neighbors of Crowe.